Removal of reactor information, other than military, from classified category, proposed amendment for	1	175–192, 225–238
	2	439, 515, 522, 523, 553
Reporting of inventions, proposed amendment regarding	2	618, 619, 622, 623
Restricted data, proposed amendment regarding	2	618–621, 623
Restriction of American activity in manufacturing fissionable material abroad	2	588
Transfer of control of nuclear weapons to the defense agencies, proposed amendment for	1	175, 178, 179
Water resources, proposed amendment relating to	2	627, 628
Atomic Energy and Free Enterprise, address by Herbert Brownell, Jr., before the section on antitrust law, New York State Bar Association, January 24, 1957	1	288, 292
	2	532, 533, 631
Atomic Energy Commission	2	626, 774, 784, 785, 790
Charges for materials and services. (See Pricing.)
Decision making process for reactor program	1	324, 325
Expenditures for civilian nuclear power	1	17
Number of personnel for licensing and inspection	1	320, 321
	2	704, 705
Procedure of, in granting license for Power Reactor Development Co	1	44, 145, 401
	2	440–442, 464–488, 498–502
Procurement of supplies from industry	1	103–105, 111, 112
Program for publication and dissemination of information	1	12, 21, 88, 91, 92
	2	783, 785, 789
Program of assistance to American industry in sale of their reactors abroad	2	625, 720–726
Proposed advisory committee to	1	414
	2	457
Recommendations for changes in Atomic Energy Act of 1954	1	313
	2	722, 789, 790
Report to Congress:
II. Isotopes, first peaceful dividend from United States atomic investment	1	77–84
III. Raw materials base for the atomic energy industry	1	84–88
IV. Information base for the atomic energy industry	1	88–97
V. Manpower base for the atomic energy industry	1	97–102
VI. Supplying a developing atomic energy industry	1	102–106
VII. Some aspects of Government policy affecting atomic industrial development	1	107–110
VIII. Progress in the nuclear reactor field	1	111–144
IX. Regulation and licensing of the aromic energy industry	1	145–152
X. United States industry in international atomic cooperation	1	153–161
